FOREWORD

This is the nineteenth annual report of the Ontario Ministry of Labour on collective bargaining agreement expirations. It describes the extent of collective bargaining activity in Ontario for renewal of agreements scheduled to expire in 1986.

The data in this report are derived from information available in the Ministry's Collective Agreements Library as of December 20, 1985, and identify all 1986 bargaining situations known to the Ministry at that date. They do not include situations that will result from recent and future certifications by the Ontario Labour Relations Board, and new agreements that were not yet signed when the data were completed.

The report consists of four tables. Part A of Table 1 shows the total number of all agreements expiring by industry and month of expiration; and Part B shows the number of employees who will be affected. Table 2 gives a distribution of the total expirations by industry and size of bargaining unit. Table 3 lists only those agreements covering 200 or more employees by month of expiration; and Table 4 lists them by industry.

Appendix 1 lists the major agreements (those covering 1,000 or more employees) expiring in 1986. Appendix 2 explains the SIC (Standard Industrial Classification), union and bargaining unit codes used in Tables 3 and 4.

The report was prepared in the Research and Analysis Unit, Industrial Relations Division, Ontario Ministry of Labour.

ONTARIO COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT EXPIRATIONS, 1986

Introduction

Collective bargaining activities will be heavy in Ontario in 1986. About 2,867 agreements, covering 487,859 employees, are scheduled to expire during the year, compared with 2,566 covering 396,129 employees in 1985. (See Tables 1A and 1B).

The 1986 expirations account for 33 percent of the 8,793 agreements on file in the Ministry of Labour's Collective Agreements Library as of December 20, 1985, and affect 36 percent of the 1,364,950 employees covered by the total file of agreements.

Key industries in which negotiations will take place in 1986 include meat packing, rubber, clothing, printing, can, auto parts, aerospace, electrical products, construction, retail food stores, education, health and welfare, local government, and automobile at American Motors. The major agreements involved are listed in Appendix 1.

Economic Setting

Current forecasts suggest that negotiations in 1986 will take place in a much stronger economic environment than in 1985. Improvements continued in several areas of the economy in 1985, marking the third year of growth from the 1981-82 recession. Plant capacity utilization increased steadily to 78.3 percent in the third quarter of 1985, the highest rate since the fourth quarter of 1981. The Consumer Price Index, at an annual rate of 4.0 percent in November, has remained relatively stable since June 1984. In Ontario, employment increased 3.7 percent in November over January's level; and the unemployment rate dropped to 7.4 percent, the lowest rate since December 1981.

Slow economic recovery, concerns over job security and low inflation helped to moderate wage settlements in 1984 and 1985. Stronger growth in 1986 may cause union negotiators to shift their attention to improvements in wages and benefits.

Monthly Activity

The bulk of next year's expirations will occur in March, April, June, August and December. These months account for 64 percent of the agreements and 75 percent of the covered employees. In terms of agreements, March will be the heaviest month, with 597 expirations covering 53,099 employees. In terms of employees, April will be the busiest month, with 124,986 employees covered by 283 agreements. July will be the lightest month both for agreements and employees, with 98 expirations covering 10,023 employees.

Industry Activity

Non-manufacturing industries account for 62 percent of next year's expirations and 71 percent of the employees affected. Bargaining activities in this sector will be concentrated for agreements or employees in construction, transportation, trade, education, health and welfare and local government. Expirations in the manufacturing sector are concentrated for agreements or employees in food and beverages, fabricated metals, non-metal mineral products, transportation equipment, and electrical products.

FOREWORD

This is the twentieth annual report of the Ontario Ministry of Labour on collective bargaining agreement expirations. It describes the extent of collective bargaining activity in Ontario for renewal of agreements scheduled to expire in 1987.

The data in this report are derived from information available in the Ministry's Collective Agreements Library as of December 31, 1986, and identify all 1987 bargaining situations known to the Ministry at that date. They do not include situations that will result from recent and future certifications by the Ontario Labour Relations Board, and new agreements that were not yet signed when the data were completed.

The report consists of four tables. Part A of Table 1 shows the total number of all agreements expiring by industry and month of expiration; and Part B shows the number of employees who will be affected. Table 2 gives a distribution of the total expirations by industry and size of bargaining unit. Table 3 lists only those agreements covering 200 or more employees by month of expiration; and Table 4 lists them by industry.

Appendix 1 lists the major agreements (those covering 1,000 or more employees) expiring in 1987. Appendix 2 explains the SIC (Standard Industrial Classification), union and bargaining unit codes used in Tables 3 and 4.

The report was prepared in the Research and Analysis Unit, Industrial Relations Division, Ontario Ministry of Labour.

ONTARIO COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT EXPIRATIONS, 1987

Introduction

The collective bargaining calendar for 1987 is heavier than in the past two years. About 2,945 agreements, covering 526,788 employees, are scheduled to expire during the year, compared with 2,867 covering 487,859 employees in 1986. (See Tables 1A and 1B.)

The 1987 expirations account for 31 percent of the 9,430 agreements on file in the Ministry of Labour's Collective Agreements Library as of December 31, 1986, and affect 38 percent of the 1,388,400 employees covered by the total file of agreements.

Key industries in which negotiations will take place in 1987 include breweries, paper and printing, steel, automobiles, farm equipment, electrical products, glass, electric utilities, hotels, education, health and welfare, and local government. The major agreements involved are listed in Appendix 1.

Economic Setting

The economy continued to grow at a sluggish pace during 1986. Real growth is expected to be about 3.2 percent for 1986, compared to 4.0 percent for 1985 and 4.5 percent in 1984; plant capacity utilization decreased steadily from 79.2 percent in the third quarter of 1985 to 76.5 percent in the third quarter of 1986; the rate of inflation dropped from 4.4 percent in January to 3.7 percent in June, but increased to 4.5 percent in November; interest rates dropped from 13 percent in February, to 9.7 percent since July; and negotiated wage settlements averaged 4.4 percent a year. The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate for Canada dropped from 9.9 percent in January to 9.4 percent in the last three months, and Ontario's rate dropped from 7.3 percent in January to 6.8 percent in December.

Forecasters predict a slower pace of growth in 1987. Real growth is expected to drop below 3 percent; Canada's seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate to remain close to 9.5 percent and Ontario's 7 percent, the rate of inflation to range between 4.5 and 5 percent, wage settlements to range between 3.5 and 4.5 percent; and interest rates to begin to bubble.

As in 1985 and 1986, questions of job and income security will likely overshadow demands for wage increases at the bargaining table in 1987. Protection against technological change, contracting out and health and safety hazards in the workplace, and improvements in pension benefits and early retirement arrangements will be high priorities for union negotiators.

Monthly Activity

Expirations in 1987 will be concentrated in March, April, June, August, September and December. These months account for 66 percent of the agreements and 72 percent of the covered employees. In terms of both agreements and employees, December will be the heaviest month with 571 expirations covering 100,167 employees. November will be the lightest month for agreements, 126; and February the lightest month for the number of employees covered, 12,322.

Industry Activity

Non-manufacturing industries account for about 60 percent of both the agreements expiring in 1987 and the employees. Bargaining activity in this sector will be concentrated for agreements or employees in health and welfare, education, electric utilities, transportation and federal and local government. These industries account for 64 percent of non-manufacturing expirations and 74 percent of the employees involved.

In the manufacturing sector, bargaining activity will be concentrated for agreements or employees in food and beverage, paper, fabricated metals, steel and transportation equipment. These industries account for about 50 percent of manufacturing expirations and 68 percent of the employees involved.

FOREWORD

This is the twenty-first annual report of the Ontario Ministry of Labour on collective bargaining agreement expirations. It describes the extent of collective bargaining activity in Ontario for renewal of agreements scheduled to expire in 1988.

The data in this report are derived from information available in the Ministry's Collective Agreements Library as of December 15, 1987, and identify all 1988 bargaining situations known to the Ministry at that date. They do not include situations that will result from recent and future certifications by the Ontario Labour Relations Board, and new agreements that were not yet signed when the report was completed.

The report consists of five tables. Part A of Table 1 shows the total number of all agreements expiring by industry and month of expiration; and Part B shows the number of employees who will be affected. Table 2 gives a distribution of the total expirations by industry and size of bargaining unit. Table 3 shows the total number of all agreements expiring and employees involved by union and month of expiration. Table 4 lists only those agreements covering 200 or more employees by month of expiration; and Table 5 lists them by industry.

Appendix I lists the major agreements (those covering 1,000 or more employees) expiring in 1988. Appendix II explains the SIC (Standard Industrial Classification), union and bargaining unit codes used in Tables 4 and 5.

The report was prepared in the Research and Analysis Unit, Industrial Relations Division, Ontario Ministry of Labour.

ONTARIO COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT EXPIRATIONS, 1988

Introduction

Collective bargaining activity in 1988 will be heavier than in the past year. About 3,455 agreements, covering nearly 540,000 employees, are scheduled to expire during the year, compared with 2,945 agreements covering 526,800 employees in 1987. (See Tables 1A and 1B.)

The upcoming negotiations will affect 39 percent of the 1,383,400 employees covered by 9,160 agreements on file in the Ministry of Labour's Collective Agreements Library as of December 15, 1987 and will involve 38 percent of the total file of agreements.

Principal industry sectors in which contract talks will take place include mining and primary metals, meat processing, farm equipment, automobile parts, electrical products, petroleum and chemical products, construction, retail trade, education, health and welfare and municipal governments. The major bargaining situations are listed in Appendix I.

Economic Setting

According to the latest provincial treasury forecast, in 1988 the provincial economy is estimated to grow in real terms by 2.8 percent and inflation is expected to average 4.7 percent.

Plant capacity utilization for Canada, which had fallen from 80 percent in the first quarter of 1986 to 78.4 percent in the fourth quarter, moved up to 80 percent again in the second quarter of 1987. Inflation, which rose from 3.9 percent in January 1987 to a peak of 4.8 percent in June, fell gradually to 4.2 percent by November. Interest rates remained fairly steady throughout 1987, and the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for Ontario stood at 5.9% in November 1987.

Negotiated wage settlements in major Ontario agreements ratified in the third quarter of 1987 averaged 3.8 percent, down from 4.0 percent in the second quarter and 4.3 percent in the first quarter. With the introduction of pay equity legislation in 1987, wage demands in 1988 can be expected to include adjustments for pay equity.

In addition to wages, union negotiators will likely focus on job protection, contracting-out and out-sourcing restrictions, training and retraining, workplace health and safety, seniority rights, income support for laid off workers and the enhancement of early retirement and pension plans. The 1987 breakthrough on indexed pensions in the auto, paper, and air transport sectors may be a factor in 1988 bargaining in other industries.

Employers contained labour costs through a variety of measures in collective bargaining settlements in 1987, including one-time bonuses in lieu of direct wage increases, two-tier pay and benefits systems as well as greater flexibility in workforce deployment through the compression of job classifications and cross-trade utilization. As in 1986 and 1987, the trend towards longer term agreements is likely to continue into 1988.

Monthly Activity

March and December have the largest number of contract expirations in 1988, with more than 600 agreements scheduled for renewal in each of these months. In terms of employees, April is the heaviest month, with almost 131,600 employees covered by 337 agreements including about 101,000 construction workers under 71 agreements. Other active months are June and August, in which a combined total of over 111,000 employees will be affected by bargaining. These five months together account for 66 percent of the total expirations and 70 percent of the total number of employees who will be involved in contract bargaining in 1988.

Industry Activity

Non-manufacturing sector bargaining, accounting for 66 percent of all expiring agreements and 77 percent of the employees covered, will continue to predominate in 1988. The major negotiations will take place in health and welfare services, education, retail trade, mining, construction and municipal administration. These six industries alone comprise 68 percent of the 2,280 non-manufacturing expirations and 79 percent of the 413,400 employees involved.

In the manufacturing sector, key industries in which bargaining will occur include meat processing, primary metals, farm equipment, automobile parts, and electrical products. These five major groups account for almost one half of the total 126,300 unionized employees covered by agreements in the manufacturing sector opening up for renewal next year.

HON. GREGORY SORBARA
MINISTER

GLENN R. THOMPSON
DEPUTY MINISTER

FOREWORD

This is the twenty-second annual report of the Ontario Ministry of Labour on collective bargaining agreement expirations. It describes the extent of collective bargaining activity in Ontario for renewal of agreements scheduled to expire in 1989.

The data in this report are derived from information available in the Ministry's Collective Agreements Library as of December 30, 1988 and identify all 1989 bargaining situations known to the Ministry at that date. They do not include situations that will result from recent and future certifications by the Ontario Labour Relations Board, and new agreements that were not yet signed when the report was completed.

The report consists of five tables. Part A of Table 1 shows the total number of all agreements expiring by industry and month of expiration; and Part B shows the number of employees who will be affected. Table 2 gives a distribution of the total expirations by industry and size of bargaining unit. Table 3 shows the total number of all agreements expiring and employees involved by union and month of expiration. Table 4 lists only those agreements covering 200 or more employees by month of expiration; and Table 5 lists them by industry.

Appendix I lists the major agreements (those covering 1,000 or more employees) expiring in 1989. Appendix II explains the SIC (Standard Industrial Classification) used in Tables 4 and 5.

The report was prepared in the Office of Collective Bargaining Information, Industrial Relations Division, Ontario Ministry of Labour.

ONTARIO COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT EXPIRATIONS, 1989

Introduction

Fewer collective agreements are scheduled to expire in 1989 than in the past three years. About 2,677 agreements, covering 351,786 employees, will be renegotiated in 1989, compared to 3,455 agreements and 539,780 employees in 1988. (See Tables 1A and 1B.)

The 1989 expiries represent 28% of the 9,585 agreements on file in the Ministry of Labour's Collective Agreements Library as of December 30, 1988 and affect 25% of the 1,403,029 total Ontario employees covered by agreements.

In terms of the number of employees affected, the upcoming negotiations will be concentrated in education and related services, transportation equipment, communication, transportation, health and welfare services, fabricated metals, and local government. The major situations are listed in Appendix I.

Economic Setting

The Ontario economy continued to grow strongly in 1988 for the sixth consecutive year of positive performance. Expectations for 1989 are for another year of growth, but at a slower pace than in 1988.

The strength of the economy was reflected in the low unemployment figures for the province. The unemployment rate for Ontario hovered around 5% for most of the year, the lowest level since 1974. The construction industry in particular was booming, and wage package settlements well above the average wage increase were the result. Latest figures for all Canada show that in the manufacturing sector, plants were utilized at above 80% of capacity for the first two quarters of 1988, as in 1987.

Inflation in Ontario outpaced Canada as a whole, rising from 4.4% per year in January to 5.2% by November 1988 compared to 4.1% per year for Canada in January and again in November. At the same time, interest rates rose steadily through 1988 to reach the levels of early 1986.

Under collective agreements covering 200 or more Ontario employees, negotiated wage increases in settlements ratified in the first quarter of 1988 averaged 3.8% per year, rose to 5.1% for settlements ratified in the second quarter, primarily due to the impact of the construction industry settlements, and averaged 4.5% for the third quarter settlements. The bargaining for stronger money packages that characterized 1988 is likely to continue into 1989.

As in the past few years, workers' demands in 1989 will include improvements to pension plans and more job security. In 1988, there were fewer one-year agreements than in the past, and that trend may continue into 1989. Other factors relevant to the labour relations environment in 1989 are the implementation of pay equity and adjustment to the introduction of free trade.

Monthly Activity

As in other years, the most common expiration date for collective agreements is December, followed by March. These two months account for 37% of the total expirations and 22 percent of the employees affected. In August, agreements for a further 30% of the total employees, primarily elementary and secondary school teachers, will expire. The lightest month, in terms of expiring agreements is July when 92 agreements expire, and is November with 10,715 employees in terms of employees affected.

Industry Activity

Bargaining in manufacturing industries will affect 121,802 employees, working primarily in transportation equipment, fabricated metals, food and beverage, printing and publishing and electrical products. These five industrial sectors account for 562 of the 1,088 agreements expiring in manufacturing and 54% of the 121,802 employees.

Nearly two-thirds of all employees with agreements expiring in 1989 work in non-manufacturing jobs, and nearly one-half of these jobs are in education. Bargaining activity will also be heavy in transportation and communication, wholesale and retail trade, health and welfare services, and local government.

FOREWORD

This is the twenty-third annual report of the Ontario Ministry of Labour on collective bargaining agreement expirations. It describes the extent of collective bargaining activity in Ontario for renewal of agreements scheduled to expire in 1990.

The data in this report are derived from information available in the Ministry's Collective Agreements Library as of December 31, 1989 and identify all 1990 bargaining situations known to the Ministry at that date. They do not include situations that will result from recent and future certifications by the Ontario Labour Relations Board, and new agreements that were not yet signed when the report was completed.

The report consists of five tables. Part A of Table 1 shows the total number of all agreements expiring by industry and month of expiration; and Part B shows the number of employees who will be affected. Table 2 gives a distribution of the total expirations by industry and size of bargaining unit. Table 3 shows the total number of all agreements expiring and employees involved by union and month of expiration. Table 4 lists only those agreements covering 200 or more employees by month of expiration; and Table 5 lists them by industry.

Appendix I lists the major agreements (those covering 1,000 or more employees) expiring in 1990. Appendix II explains the SIC (Standard Industrial Classification) used in Tables 4 and 5, and Appendix III defines the group codes.

The report was prepared in the Office of Collective Bargaining Information, Industrial Relations Division, Ontario Ministry of Labour.

ONTARIO COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT EXPIRATIONS, 1990

Introduction

Collective bargaining activity in 1990 will be heavier than in the past year. About 3,295 agreements, covering 637,460 employees, are scheduled to expire during the year. (See Tables 1A and 1B.)

The 1990 expiries represent 34% of the 9,685 agreements on file in the Ministry of Labour's Collective Agreements Library as of December 31, 1989 and affect 45% of the 1,424,718 total Ontario employees covered by agreements.

In terms of the number of employees affected, the upcoming negotiations will be concentrated in construction, transportation equipment, education and related services, local government, retail trade, communications, steel, pulp and paper and utilities. The major situations are listed in Appendix I.

Economic Setting

After six consecutive years of strong growth in the area of 5% per annum, Ontario's economy showed signs of slowing down in 1989. The rate of growth in 1989 was 2.8% and expectations for 1990 are for the rate to be about 2.0%.

The unemployment rate for the province averaged 5.0% in 1989, the same as it had been in 1988 and the lowest level since 1974.

The inflation rate in Ontario rose to 5.8% in 1989, having been at 4.7% the previous year. The national rate of inflation also rose: it was 4.1% in 1988, but was 5.0% in 1989. At the same time interest rates in 1989 remained higher than they had been in quite a few years.

Under collective agreements covering 200 or more Ontario employees, negotiated wage increases in settlements ratified in the first quarter of 1989 averaged 5.3% per year, rose to 5.4% for settlements ratified in the second quarter, and averaged 6.1% for the third quarter.

In 1989, there were fewer one-year agreements than in recent years, and that trend may continue into 1990. Other factors relevant to the labour relations environment in 1990 are the implementation of pay equity, adjustment to the introduction of free trade, and the implementation of the federal goods and services tax in January 1991.

Monthly Activity

March, April and December have the largest number of contract expirations in 1990 and account for 46% of the total expirations. In terms of employees, April is the heaviest month, with 154,314 employees covered by 405 agreements including about 107,100 construction workers under 70 agreements. Other active months are June, August and September, in which a combined total of about 204,950 employees will be affected by bargaining. These six months together account for 70% of the total expirations and 78% of the total number of employees who will be involved in contract bargaining in 1990.

Industry Activity

Non-manufacturing sector bargaining will account for 60% of all agreements expiring in 1990 and 66% of the employees covered. The major negotiations will take place in construction, retail trade, education, health and welfare services and municipal administration. These five industries alone comprise 58% of the 1,982 non-manufacturing expirations and 70% of the 422,745 employees involved.

In the manufacturing sector, key industries in which bargaining will occur include the transportation equipment, steel, pulp and paper and food and beverage industries. These four major groups account for 47% of manufacturing expirations and about 70% of the employees covered by agreements in the manufacturing sector opening up for renewal next year.

This is the twenty-fourth annual report by the Ontario Ministry of Labour on collective agreement expirations. It describes the extent of collective bargaining activity in Ontario for renewal of agreements scheduled to expire in 1991.

The report, derived from information in the Ministry's Collective Agreements Library as of December 31, 1990, identifies all 1991 bargaining situations known to the Ministry as of that date. It does not include situations that will result from recent or future certifications by the Ontario Labour Relations Board, or new agreements that had not been ratified at the time the report was completed.

The report consists of five tables. Part A of Table 1 shows the total number of all agreements expiring by industry and month of expiration; Part B shows the number of employees who will be affected. Table 2 gives a distribution of the total expirations by industry and size of bargaining unit. Table 3 shows the total number of all agreements expiring and employees involved by union and month of expiration. Table 4 lists those agreements covering 200 or more employees by month of expiration and Table 5 lists them by industry.

Appendix I lists the major agreements (those covering 1,000 or more employees) expiring in 1991. Appendix II explains the SIC (Standard Industrial Classification) used in Tables 4 and 5, and Appendix III defines the occupational group codes.

The report was prepared in the Office of Collective Bargaining Information, Industrial Relations Division, Ontario Ministry of Labour.

ONTARIO COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT EXPIRATIONS, 1991

Introduction

Collective bargaining activity in 1991 will be heavier in terms of the number of expiries but lighter in terms of the number of employees affected than the previous year. Some 4,157 agreements, covering 554,618 employees, are scheduled to expire during the year, compared to 3,295 agreements covering 637,460 employees in 1990. (See Tables 1A and 1B.)

The 1991 expiries represent 43% of the 9,618 agreements in the Ministry of Labour's Collective Agreements Library as of December 31, 1990 and affect 38% of the 1,452,155 total Ontario employees covered by agreements.

With respect to the number of employees affected, the upcoming negotiations will be concentrated in education and related services, health and welfare services, transportation, and the federal government. These sectors account for 60% of the total number of employees covered by agreements expiring in 1991.

Besides contract talks involving provincial government employees, the major set of negotiations in the public sector will involve the Ontario Hospital Association and approximately 42,000 nurses represented by the Ontario Nurses' Association. A major set of negotiations in the private sector will take place between Inco and 6,050 employees represented by the United Steel Workers of America. Other major negotiations expected are listed in Appendix I.

Economic Setting

Economic forecasts indicate that bargaining in 1991 will take place in a weak economic environment. The period 1983 to 1988 was characterized by strong growth in Ontario's economy. During this period, the province's economy grew at an average annual rate of 6.1%. The next two years saw slower growth in Ontario's real gross domestic product. In 1989 and 1990, the rates of economic growth were 2.8% and 0.7% respectively. The slowdown in the province's economy is expected to continue in 1991 with an estimated growth rate of 0.5%.

The annual inflation rate, as measured by the Ontario Consumer Price Index, was 4.7% in November, down from its November 1989 rate of 5.8%. The national inflation rate declined slightly from 5.3% in 1989 to 5.0% in 1990.

The national unemployment rate was 9.1% in November, the highest it has been since May 1987 and up from 8.8% in October. Job losses were concentrated primarily in construction and manufacturing, industries which are largely based in Ontario. This has led to an increase in the province's unemployment rate moving from 5.2% in November 1989 to 7.5% a year later.

Under collective agreements covering 200 or more Ontario employees, negotiated wage increases in settlements ratified in the first quarter of 1990 averaged 7.1% per year, declined to 6.5% in the second quarter, and rose to 6.7% in the third.

Pay equity, free trade and the federal goods and services tax will, in all likelihood, continue to have a strong influence on collective bargaining in 1991. Given the current economic climate, job security provisions, including restrictions on layoffs and income protection for laid off workers, are likely to dominate the 1991 round of negotiations.

Monthly Activity

March and December have the largest number of contract expirations in 1991 and account for 43% of the total expirations. However, these two months contain only 30% of the total number of employees scheduled to bargain in 1991. In terms of employees, August is the heaviest month with 121,953 employees covered by 367 agreements. This month's figures include 102,271 employees under 192 agreements in the education and related services sector. August alone represents 22% of the total number of employees affected by bargaining but only 9% of the 1991 expirations. These three months, plus June, account for 59% of the total expirations and 65% of the total number of employees who will be involved in contract renewals in 1991.

Industry Activity

Non-manufacturing sector bargaining will account for 69% of all agreements expiring in 1991 and 77% of the employees covered. The major negotiations will take place in education, health and welfare services, transportation and the federal government. Together, these four industries account for 61% of the 2,867 agreements expiring in the non-manufacturing sector and 78% of the 428,012 employees covered by agreements in this sector. Education and health and welfare services alone represent 51% of the non-manufacturing expirations and 53% of the employees involved.

In the manufacturing sector, key industries in which bargaining will occur include transportation equipment, electrical products, fabricated metals and food and beverage industries. These four groups comprise 40% of manufacturing expirations and 49% of the employees covered by agreements in the manufacturing sector opening up for renewal next year.
